Disclaimer

Clinical recommendations provided in the training manual are provided as a guide to treatment and is based on expert opinions and current policies and protocols of the National Department of Health. Recommended drugs and dosages are based on currently available data. The pamphlet insert or latest edition of MIMS should always be consulted if in doubt. Treatment decisions should be made by the responsible clinician, with due consideration for the individual circumstances of the patient. Seeking a second opinion from a more experienced colleague should be regarded as a learning opportunity.
